

Please help us create the Impossible in 2026...

...and convince Bruce Springsteen to come to Wakefield!

A Project in Hope!

How to get involved:

1. Share the project with anyone who might help it travel

Whether you're from Wakefield or not, you might know someone who knows someone. Even the most tenuous link could help the reach of this idea. This is a live project in learning about the art of six degrees of separation, can you help?

2. Share your Springsteen story

People have already started sharing their personal stories about Bruce and how he has inspired them at different times in their lives. We would love to collect these stories and share them with Bruce to inspire him. These stories build the heartbeat of the project and remind us how music connects us across generations and experiences.

Tell us how Bruce has inspired you – and perhaps the song you'd most love to hear live?

3. Send Bruce a message of hope

Share a photo, a short video, or a few words encouraging Bruce to come to Wakefield. We'd love these messages to form a growing ripple of hope across the city – something we'll gather together and share with Bruce's team.

Perhaps you're a school wanting your students to get involved, a local business, a community group, a choir, an allotment team, or simply a group of neighbours with a creative idea?
